

Trade secrets: today and in the future

By Christina Wainikka

Trade secrets are protected by the trade secret directive.

The directive applies in all member states of the union.

The concept of a trade secret is a secret that gives an advantage.

It must be known only to a limited number of persons.